

MORNINGSTARS OF LIBERTY: VOLUME 1
THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR IN GEORGIA
1775–1783

Gordon Burns Smith
Boyd Publishing, Milledgeville, Georgia

This work is a comprehensive history of Georgia's participation in the American Revolution, 1775–1783. It contains interesting and informative maps, exquisite portraits, and rare diagrams relating to that conflict. This work places special emphasis on biographies of Revolutionary-era personalities not readily available elsewhere. It has a full-name index, has a hard cover, and carries a beautiful dust jacket. It is the first of four volumes concerning Georgia during the Revolution. Volume 2 will contain biographies of the commissioned officers of the Georgia Continental Line and Staff. Volume 3 will contain chapters on the British Regular and Provincial units in Georgia, the Hessian auxiliary units in Georgia, the Georgia Militia, the Georgia State Line, women, treatment of prisoners, bounty warrants, and monuments. Volume 4 will contain the service records of the enlisted men of the Georgia Continental Line.

MORNINGSTARS OF LIBERTY: VOLUME TWO
GEORGIA'S CONTINENTAL OFFICERS DURING THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR
1775–1783

Gordon Burns Smith
Boyd Publishing, Milledgeville, Georgia

The beautifully-illustrated work complements Morningstars Of Liberty: Volume One, The Revolutionary War in Georgia, 1775–1783. Volume Two gives the biographies, Revolutionary War careers, and family histories—insofar as they can be documented—of the 259 men who are known to have held Continental commissions in the Georgia Line and Staff. In addition, it contains the same information on 109 officers who held Continental commissions in other states, but who came to Georgia following the close of the war. This work is 441 pages long, has a full-name index and extensive table of contents, as well as a bibliography. Its dust jacket features a rare portrait of Major John Habersham in full uniform.
